Something's are worth the wait

Something are worth the wait.

She has her own special way

Of turning around my terrible day

She makes all the bad things go away

The second that she says hey

And when I look into her beautiful crystals blue eyes

I see pure beauty with no disguise

Just a glance at her makes my heart beat rise as i blush madly more and more as the second go by.

I know for a fact that these feelings aren't lies.

There real despite im tall large green teen mutant turtle with ugly gap between my teeth along with brother's and mutant father who rat.

If what i feel isn't real i don't wanna feel or i assumed it love that my heart keep beating each time i think of you.

If only she knew

How much my love for her grew more and more each day ever since the day we save her from the krraag.

It was love at first sight the first human i ever lay my chocolate brown eyes at her.

After 15 years we hid from the world among me and my brother's.

I knew i love her the second we met.

I knew you were the one for me.

Maybe, just maybe we could start something new

And if beauty was inches, she'd go on for miles

I better catch her before I go out of style.

I'm going to let my heart be my dial

So I can tell her what I've been feeling for awhile.

I wait for my princess to come to her shinny knight cause in the end some thing are worth the wait.

I love you April O'neill.

Rather you know it or not I love you.

I hope one day you say those three words im dying hear.

Until then i shall wait.

I don't care how long it take for you say it i wait for you.

Cause some things are just worth the wait in the end.

I love you April O'neill always and forever in my heart.
